Programme goal

This course aims to prepare nurses who can make independent decisions in nursing situations, protect the rights of and facilitate individuals and groups in pursuit of help, functioning the hospital, Community nursing services and conduct the research studies in the area of nursing practice. They are also expected to assume the role of teacher, Supervisor, and Manager in a clinical/Public health checking/School of Nursing.

Philosophy

We, the staff of the College of Nursing, MIMS believe that caring for human being is multifaceted. We believe that each individual is unique and as health care professionals we are obligated to provide holistic care.

It is our belief that holistic nursing is dependent on quality nursing education based on sound educational principles. We recognize formal education as the foundation for practice of professional nursing.

Education is a change in behaviour, which best occurs in an organized environment promoting problem solving approach. It is enhanced by incorporating knowledge from the Medical Health, Behavioural, Biological and Physical Sciences in the contest of a sequentially planned, organized curriculum and conducive physical facilities for learning.

We recognize that nature of nursing is such that a substantial portion of students learning is acquired in the clinical area and it is interdependent with allied professions and occupation to promote and maintain the nursing standards.

We believe in the individuality of each student. We accept that each individual varies in her/his capabilities, interest, Cognitive abilities and skills. Therefore, we accept that teachers have the responsibility to provide for continued development of each student as an individual, citizen as well as a nurse.

We accept our responsibilities in guiding students to develop pride in upholding and promoting the nursing profession.

The Faculty of Nursing believes that Nursing, as a health science require prompt updating of knowledge and skills in the areas of clinical specialty to render quality services and maintain collaboration with other health professionals.

Postgraduate programme prepare nurses to assume leadership positions in Nursing and allied health fields as specialists, practitioners, consultants, educators, counselors, administrators and researchers in a variety of settings in meeting the health care priorities and the changing needs of the society.

It encourages accountability and commitment in continuing education and also contributes to the body of knowledge in nursing through guided and independent research studies and facilitates evidence – based practice. It fosters decision making, critical thinking and creative work.
